No one is turned away for the lack of funds

Every parent and every child has experienced deep feelings of frustration and anger. You are not alone! Raising children is a really hard job!

In this ten session class, we'll introduce a philosophy and practice of parenting based on the latest research about brain and child development.

Through discussion groups, theory, role playing, and specific problem solving, we will:

* Learn to set clear and respectful boundaries

* Explore ourselves and our children through a lens of empathy and understanding.

* Identify strategies and tools that will help you successfully create the parenting relationship you want with your child.
